V. PRIMAL WINDS: The Whole Noyse

Saturday, May 14, 2011 • 7:30pm

First Congregational Church, Santa Cruz

Linda Burman-Hall: Artistic Director

The Whole Noyse (cornets, sackbuts, and curtal)

The Whole Noyse

The Whole Noyse derives its name from medieval England, when a group of loud wind instruments was called a 'noise'. At the cusp of Renaissance and Baroque, their repertoire includes rousing dances and canzonas by Josquin Desprez, Giovanni Gabrieli, Girolamo Frescobaldi and others, all played on replicas of 16th to early 17th century instruments.
